CPG Systems Inc. Offering Hosted Exchange

Vancouver, B.C., September 3, 2009 – CPG Systems Inc. today announced that they are beginning delivery of Hosted Exchange and Hosted Sharepoint services, said Jeremy Colwell, CPG's Principal. "Hosted Exchange and Sharepoint allow smaller companies to take advantage of the features and functionality of those products, without having to worry about the associated costs of licensing or hardware" Colwell said.

"The Exchange mail system offers great functions like shared calendars and contact management, along with advanced email handling and spam prevention capabilities. And Sharepoint can be used for project or document tracking, customer relationship management and many other functions" Colwell continued.

Microsoft's SharePoint is a collection of server-side tools and applications that allows businesses to make documents and other key data available for collaboration through a single online portal. Sales of Sharepoint products exceeded $1Billion USD in fiscal 2008.

Microsoft's Exchange email server is a de facto standard for sending and receiving email for small and mid-sized companies. Tying closely with the Outlook email client, Exchange adds calendaring functions, public storage folders, advanced contact management and integrates them all with advanced email handling and functionality.

Colwell said "The reason this is a game changer for small businesses is that Exchange can sometimes be on the expensive side if you have a lot of people. And Sharepoint can be complicated to set up. This offering allows smaller companies to enjoy all the advantages of the software, without the high cost of licenses and hardware."
